www.GSAXcess.gov

- The website where all Federal excess property is listed.
 - Including USDA excess property which is available through the Agency Asset Management System (AAMS).

Below this is a navigation bar with links for 'User Guides', 'FAQ', 'Program Links', 'Contact Links', and 'GSAXcess® HelpDesk'. A secondary navigation bar includes 'Agency Asset Management System (AAMS)', 'Energy Asset Disposal System (EADS)', 'Report Property', 'Want List', 'Direct Select', and 'PTM'. A search bar is present with 'Basic Search Options' and buttons for 'Advanced Search', 'Home', and 'Logout'. The AAMS Advantage

- The Agency Asset Management System (AAMS) allows you to see USDA excess property for 15-days before it is rolled over to the GSAXcess® site (which is open to all federal agencies).
- Viewing USDA property through the AAMS system means that within the 15-day period you are not competing with other Federal agencies for items.

Eligibility

- Excess Personal Property is available to eligible institutions in support of research, educational, technical, and scientific activities or for related programs
- 1994 Tribal Land-Grant Colleges and Universities are eligible to access both GSAXcess® and AAMS

Things to Know

- The institution is responsible for arranging pick-up of items. Items are not delivered.
- On the rare occasion that an agency within the USDA wishes to secure an item – it has priority. Otherwise, items are available on a first come basis.
- Educational institutions can access all property except for items such as weapons, nuclear ordnance, ammunition and explosives, guided missiles and space vehicles.
- Items are not necessarily in working order- however, the working condition is stated on the website.
